PCSO bares ad kickbacks

Says GMA allies cornered media fund of agency

FRIENDS in media of then President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo got hefty kickbacks from advertising placements of the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office (PCSO) on their radio programs, television shows or newspapers, the new PCSO management said.

AMA TOWER RESIDENCES

AMA LAND, Inc. (AMALI) respects and will continue to abide by the Resolution dated June 10, 2011 of the 10th Division of the Court of Appeals in CA-G.R. SP No. 118994, Wack Wack Residents Association, Inc. (WWRAI) vs. Regional Trial Court, Pasig City, Branch 264 and AMA Land, Inc.

AMALI has filed an Urgent Motion to Lift TRO and a P2,000,000 counter bond last June 13, 2011 to answer for any damages claimed by WWRAI, which posted a bond for P1,000,000.

AMALI also filed a Compliance and Motion for Reconsideration asking the Court of Appeals to dismiss the WWRAI petition because of forum shopping. WWRAI has raised the same issues of invasion of privacy, disruption due to the construction, and increased volume of vehicle traffic in two previous cases filed with the Secretary of Public Works and Highways and with the 6th Division of the Court of Appeals (now with the 12th Division), where it failed to obtain any relief.

In its Compliance, AMALI pointed out that WWRAI has no clear and unmistakable right and that the rights of its members whom it claims to represent do not extend beyond the boundaries of their properties. AMALI believes that the Court of Appeals will see through the merit of its submissions and will resolve the issues in a timely manner.

AMALI is a good corporate citizen. It has invested close to P1 billion in the project and complied with all regulatory requirements and secured all the necessary permits and licenses for the AMA Tower Residences project. Its construction activities are based on the Amended Building Permit No. 08-2011-0048 issued on February 4, 2011 by the City Building Official of Mandaluyong City.

AMALI has secured an Environmental Compliance Certificate No. ECC-NCR-9706 from the Department of Environment and Natural Resources and a License to Sell No. 24161 from the Housing and Land Use Regulatory Board.

AMALI assures the public that the AMA Tower Residences will not be delayed by its compliance with the Resolution issued by the Court of Appeals. AMALI is mandated by its rehabilitation plan to pursue the project and to complete it on time.
